RE: Notice of Dedicated Care Capacity at Nursing Facilities for Patients who are Not Suspected or Confirmed to be Infected with COVID-19

A. Overview

As part of its ongoing efforts to expand existing health care capacity during the COVID-19 pandemic, the Commonwealth is issuing this notice to assist acute care hospitals and other individuals or health care entities with the identification of nearby facilities that are accepting patients who are not suspected or confirmed to be infected with COVID-19 for skilled nursing levels of care. A number of facilities have informed the Executive Office of Health and Human Services (EOHHS) that they are able to provide dedicated space and staffing to serve individuals that are not suspected or confirmed to be infected with COVID-19 and need ongoing nursing facility level of care.

This notice is intended only to offer guidance and serve as a reference, and does not contain any requirements for providers, issue updates to current MassHealth service rates, or endorse specific institutions or referral relationships. Massachusetts posts a “Notice of Dedicated Care Capacity at Nursing Facilities for COVID-19 Patients” available here. More information about Nursing Facilities with Dedicated COVID-19 Isolation Spaces is available here.

This notice will be updated twice per week, with new versions being posted each Tuesday and Friday by 4pm E.T.

C. Hospital Coordination Expectations

Facilities are expected to continue usual protocols concerning transfers of patients.

Per Massachusetts Department of Public Health guidance published on April 29, 2020, long-term care facilities shall not condition admission on COVID-19 testing or test results. Individuals discharged to a long-term care facility from a hospital should be tested for COVID-19 at the hospital, if a test is available. If a test is not performed before hospital discharge, the long-term care facility should test the resident upon admission, if a test is available.

Awaiting the test results should not delay an individual's discharge from the hospital to the long-term care facility. While awaiting the test results, the long-term care facility should quarantine the resident, treating him or her as a presumptive positive COVID-19 case. If the test result is negative, the resident must remain in a quarantined space, if available for a fourteen day period after admission to the long-term care facility. If the test result is positive the resident should be moved to dedicated COVID-19 space.
